

Construction and Infrastructure

Construction companies, contractors and developers turn to WilmerHale for help with their most challenging litigation, arbitration and investigations needs. Our experience ranges from government contract and development project disputes to False Claims Act investigations and lawsuits, US and international arbitration proceedings, and litigation in federal and state courts. We regularly handle civil and criminal investigations and inquiries from the US Department of Justice; the US Securities and Exchange Commission; the US Department of Energy; federal, state and local inspectors general; and state attorneys general.

WHY WILMERHALE

- Broad capability to handle a range of complex construction disputes and internal investigations.
- Experienced in federal and state court and arbitration proceedings.
- Long record of success in government investigations and inquiries into construction matters.
- Coordinated, 360-degree strategic approach to building a case.
- Deep knowledge of False Claims Act case law and trends in prosecution.

REPRESENTATIVE MATTERS

- Representing the owner of a large development project in breach of contract and professional negligence claims arising out of alleged issues with foundation design, geotechnical analysis, and construction means and methods.
- Representing a Middle Eastern state in a Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) arbitration involving a major road construction project.
- Represented a major oilfield services company in a multi-billion euro German Institution of Arbitration (DIS) dispute relating to alleged defects in subsurface equipment.
- Provided strategic counseling to a large engineering, construction and project management company on potential changes to the False Claims Act.
- Representing a property development company responding to a grand jury subpoena related to Environmental Protection Agency regulations on inspection and renovation of properties containing lead paint.
